J82 (Card 6)

As already shown in the "title varies" note, the earlier volumes included a record of American patented inventions. "Prior to 1844, the claims of patents were omitted from the Patent office publications, the names of inventors, and the titles of inventions, with the dates of their allowance alone being published. In 1845, the publication of the claims was commenced, beginning with patent no. 2901. There are, therefore, 2900 patents of which claims and descriptive matter were never printed by the Patent office for public use. From the year 1826 to 1859, the patent reports were published, more or less completely, in the Franklin journal, afterwards the Journal of the Franklin institute, and in a far more satisfactory manner than in the official records."—Index to the Journal, 1826 to 1866, p. Free trade and protection.

[Carey, Mathew,] 1760–1839.
Twenty-one golden rules to depress agriculture, impede the progress of manufacturers, paralize commerce, impair national resources, produce a constant fluctuation in the value of every species of property, and blight and blast the bounties of nature ... in a word, to cripple a great nation ... To which is annexed a copious appendix, containing fifty-one substantial reasons against any alteration whatever, of the existing tariff. By a Pennsylvanian. Salem [Mass.,] Reprinted by W. Palfray, jun., 1824.
